

RESEARCH PARTICIPANTS NEEDED

A UC BERKELEY STUDY ON IMMIGRANT FAMILIES AND CHILD WELLBEING

We invite child welfare professionals and legal services practitioners to participate in a UC Berkeley research study exploring how the public child welfare system can better support immigrant families and children in California. Your insights will help inform training, practice, and policy innovations that promote culturally responsive and equitable services for immigrant communities.

Who can Participate?

- Professionals currently or previously working in child welfare or legal services in California.
- Experience serving immigrant or mixed-status families involved with the public child welfare system.

What is Involved?

- A confidential one-on-one interview (45–60 minutes) conducted via Zoom, by phone, or in person.
- You will be asked about your professional experiences, challenges, and recommendations for improving service delivery and family wellbeing.

Your Participation is:

- Completely voluntary, confidential, and safe
- Participants will receive a $30 gift card as appreciation for their time
